This Week at Tarago Public School

Principal's Report

Hello and welcome to another week of completing your homework at home. The work that has been returned has been amazing, but remember, do not worry if you find some of the activities challenging to do online. Have a go, as the more you get used to the features of the activities, the easier it will become. This will be the last week for school classes as we have been directed to spend week 11 preparing for distance education and online learning training. All children are to stay home and some staff will be working from home. Some students have not been logging into Mathletics. It is an expectation that all students complete maths work online unless you have no internet service. Also for all children who usually read and take home PM readers. (That means levelled books which all of K-2 are reading and some 3-6 students), I have purchased subscriptions for you to read online. I have differentiated all the reading groups so you will have access to your level. The app is called PM ecollection and works on iPads. You will get your subscription details in your take home pack this week. I expect your child/children to read a new book every day however if you need to you can take 2 days to read a book. Parents or carers please listen and help your child each day with their book. If you do not have an iPad at home please contact me for an alternative solution to reading the books. The rest of 3-6 need to read their own books every day. Let me know if you do not have enough books to read at home. We expect distance education to go for some time so please set up an area designated for your child to learn such as a quiet area with a desk. Any questions send me an email or call the school. Keep safe!
